

Wetland Conservation and Management Cooperation Program in the Lancang-Mekong Region

27 March 2019

The Lancang-Mekong River

The Lancang-Mekong River is the largest river wetland in Southeast Asia shared by six countries: Cambodia, China, Lao PDR, Myanmar, Thailand and Vietnam. They are members of the Lancang-Mekong Cooperation (LMC).

The Wetland Conservation and Management Cooperation Program is sponsored by Chinese government and organized by National Forestry and Grassland Administration (NFGA), aiming at promoting multilateral cooperation to protect wetlands in the Lancang-Mekong region.

Seminars and trainings included in the Program:

1. REGIONAL SEMINAR ON WETLAND CONSERVATION AND RESTORATION

August, 2019□3 days in total

Yunnan province, China

This seminar is designing for Director-general or above level officials who work on wetland conservation, management and other related fields, as well as the senior technical staff or teachers in research institutes interested in these fields. Depending on availability of funds, the total number of invited participants from each eligible country (Cambodia, Lao, Myanmar, Thailand and Vietnam) will be limited from 5 to 8.

2. TRAINING COURSE ON WETLAND CONSERVATION AND RESTORATION

August, 2019, 10 days in total

Yunnan Province, China

This training course is designing for government officials, managers, researchers or staff members of NGO, who work on wetland conservation, management or related fields. Moreover, the total number of invited participants from each eligible country (Cambodia, Lao, Myanmar, Thailand and Vietnam) will be limited from 5 to 8.

CONTACT FOR APPLICATION:

Contact: Guoxin Yan Yiyi Xiong (Ms)

E-mail: Lancang_Mekong2019@163.com

Wechat: 13880484382 15050312003

Fax: +86-10-62336724

Tel: +86-10-18813106294 [Yan]

Source URL:

<https://www.ramsar.org/news/wetland-conservation-and-management-cooperation-program-in-the-lancang-mekong-region>