SUMMARY OF IMPLEMENTATION (OPTIONAL)

Please, include a summary on the implementation of Ramsar Convention in your country during the last triennium

In the last triennium it was continued the process of identifying for designation of new Ramsar sites and it was continued the process to improve the management of existing Ramsar site.

The "Small Lake of Braila", the second Ramsar site in Romania was declared Protected Area (Natural Park). According with the new legal framework (Decision of Government 230/2003), the management staff was appointed.

OPERATIONAL OBJECTIVE 1. INVENTORY AND ASSESSMENT

OPERATIONAL OBJECTIVE 1.1: Describe the extent of wetland resources, especially at global and national (or, where appropriate, provincial) scales, in order to inform and underpin implementation of the convention and in particular the application of the wise use principle

COP9 REPORT SECTION

Action 1.1.1.- Promote and encourage the use of standard wetland inventory methodologies following the Ramsar Framework for Wetland Inventory (Resolution VIII.6), to undertake, update and disseminate national (or, where appropriate, provincial) scientific inventories of wetlands.

GLOBAL TARGET 2003-2005: By COP9, all Parties without completed inventories to have initiated action in line with the Ramsar Framework for Wetland Inventory, and as far as possible to have completed and disseminated comprehensive national wetland inventories.

1.- Country has a comprehensive National Wetland Inventory (if inventory exists, please include the number of sites)	E	Choose an answer for each indicator A = Not applicable; B = Yes; C = No; D = Partly/ in some cases; E = In progress; F= Being planned; G = Being updated; H = Other status (explain below); I = No answer	N° wetlands / Ramsar sites

In the frame of Ramsar Convention there was elaborated a list with 12 potential wetlands internationally important as habitats for bird populations

Action 1.1.2.- Include in national wetland inventories information which identifies: a) potential Ramsar sites; b) wetlands of national, provincial or local importance in the territory of each Contracting Party; and c) wetlands that need restoration and rehabilitation, with a list of priorities, giving particular priority to inventories of karst and caves, intertidal wetlands, coral reefs, peatlands, sites supporting globally threatened species, and other wetland types and features under-represented in the Ramsar List.

GLOBAL TARGET 2003-2005: All national wetland inventories initiated after COP8 to include information on wetland importance; potential Ramsar sites; wetlands for restoration; location of under-represented wetland types; and values and functions, in particular in relation to poverty eradication strategies.

During the 2003-2005 period the Strategy for the Integrated Management of Coastal Zone was elaborated by the National Authority for Water Management “Apele Romane”, with the international technical assistance. The Strategy is submitted to the Ministry of Environment and Water Management in view to be approved and to be implemented.

3.- Summary on the conservation status of coastal wetlands [Please provide here a summary on the conservation status of coastal wetlands and provide reference citation to any relevant publication, reports or analysis.]

The Romanian Black Sea Coast of about 235 km is divided in two main sections: the Northern Section of about 150 km is included in the Danube Delta Biosphere Reserve, formed mainly from wetlands (fresh waters, brakich and marine waters) and sand dunes, and the Southern Section of about 85 km formed from higher teraces and narrow sand beaches. The Southern Section of the Coast includes several coastal wetlands, lakes and lagoons, inventored as IBAs.

The characterisation of the present status of the whole marine coastal zone could be also divided in two main sections: the section included in the DDBR – Ramsar Site is subject of a management plan, being a nature protected area, with the specific activities performed by the Danube Delta Biosphere Reserve Authority, while the section situated on the southern part of the coastal zone is included in the environmental survey and control of the Local Environmental Agency (Constanta District).

The Law 280/2004 established the main objectives of the integrated management of the coastal zone. In 2005 was finalised the Strategy for the Integrated Management of the Coastal Zone, elaborated by the National Authority for Water Management “Apele Romane” with the international financial support and technical assistance. In 2004 it was established the National Committee of the the Coastal Zone, dealing with implementation of the existing legal framework and the Strategy, after its approval by the Ministry of Environment and Water Management.

The Strategy for IMCZ includes also studies on the status of coastal zone. The preliminary assessment of the present situation shows that there are three main threats of the coastal zone: coastal erosion (section between Sulina and Sf. Gheorghe, and sections Eforie Nord, Eforie Sud, Olimp-Mangalia, Constanta Beach, Mamaia Beach, Costinesti Beach), pollution (the main sources are placed in agriculture developed near the coastal zone, waste waters), and use of land (the high pressure on the coastal lands for the urban development, the pressure of tourism, the development of industrial activities).

3.-Impacts of dams on wetlands [Please provide here a summary of impacts and provide reference citation to any relevant publications, reports or analyses.]
During the last decades of the previous century, important works were done on land reclamation and dams for energy. Important land reclamation works were performed along the main rivers, mainly in the Danube River Flood Plain, where about 400,000 hectares of wetlands were reclaimed for intensive agriculture. In a similar way, in the Danube Delta , about 80,000 hectares of wetlands were reclaimed being transformed in polders for agriculture (about 40,000 ha) and fishfarming (about 40,000 ha). These works affected the natural capacity of the Danube Flood Plain and the Danube Delta to attenuate the impact of eutrophication phenomena and pollution. On the other hand, the important habitats, nesting, breeding, and wintering areas for bird population, spawning zone, breeding and wintering area for many fish species were destroyed. Due to the Electric Power Dams “Iron Gate 1” and “Iron Gate 2” built on the Danube River, the migration of sturgeon population was affected. In the last decade, the Ministry of Environment and Water Management started an important wetland restoration/rehabilitation program, in Danube Delta Biosphere Reserve and along the Danube River Flood Plain within the National Program as well as the International Program “The Lower Danube Green Corridor”.
Action r1.2.vii.- Monitor and assess the impacts of drought and other natural disasters on the ecological character of Ramsar sites and other wetlands, and on the livelihoods of local communities and indigenous peoples dependent on these wetlands, and report this information to the Ramsar Bureau and STRP. In Romania, the environmental impact assessment is realized in concordance with specific regulations, which are in accord with the Directives concerning the environmental impact assessment – EIA and SEA.

The environmental impact assessment shall identify, describe and assess in an appropriate manner the light of each individual case, the direct and indirect effects of a project on the following factors:

- a) human beings, fauna and flora;
- b) soil, water, air, climate and the landscape;
- c) material assets and the cultural heritage;
- d) the interaction between the factors mentioned at letters a), b) and c).

The environmental impact assessment aims at stating the measures of reduction or avoidance of negative impact of the project on the factors enumerated above and determines the decision of achieving or not achieving the project on the chosen site.

In the framework of screening stage in the environmental impact assessment process is necessary to taking into consideration the vulnerability of environment from the geographical areas affected by project, taking into account especially the followings:

- the actual use of land;
- the richness, quality and the regeneration capacity of natural resources from the respective area;
- mountain areas and forests;
- natural reserve and parks (in concordance with Law no. 5/2000 concerning the territorial plan)
